Phone photography · tips

1

Golden hour wins.

The hour after sunrise and before sunset makes everyone look good.

2

Put it on a third.

Turn on the grid and place your subject on a line, not in the middle.

3

Get down low.

Pets and children look best from their own eye level.

4

Food from above.

Stand up, hold the phone flat and fill the frame with the table.

5

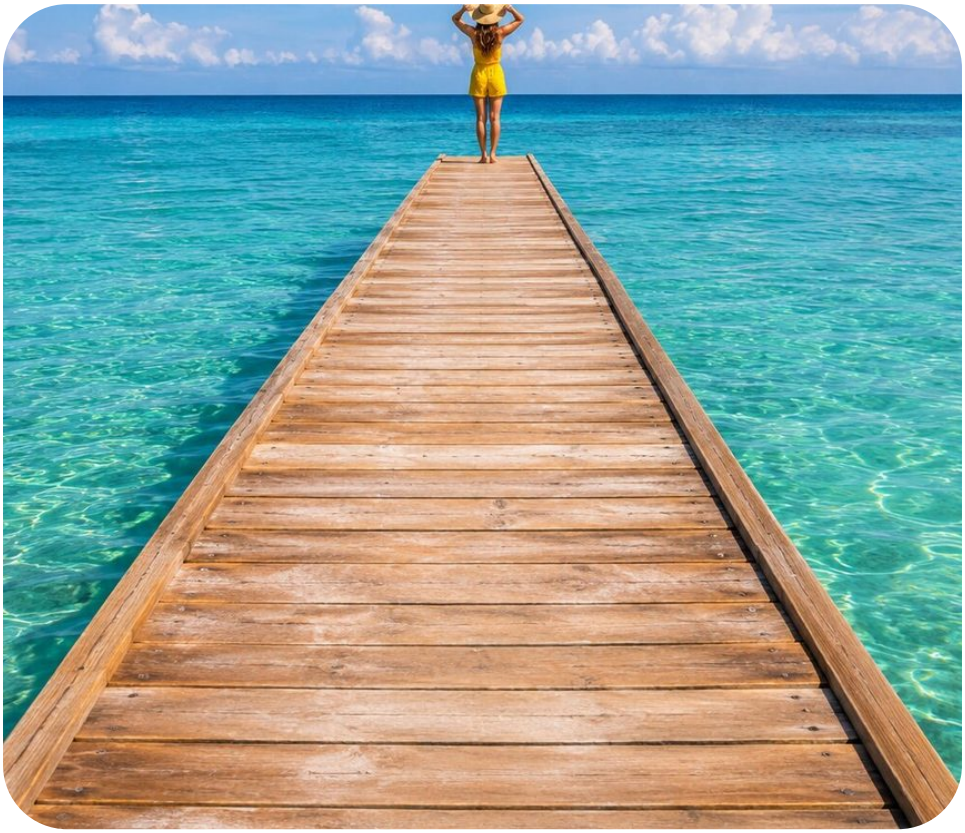

Look for reflections.

After rain, every puddle is a mirror. Get close to the ground.

6

Follow the lines.

Paths, piers and fences lead the eye straight into the picture.

7

Catch the moment.

Hold the shutter for a burst and keep the frame where people laugh.

Get closer.

Small things get big when you fill the frame. Tap to focus.

9

Keep shooting after dark.

Turn off the flash, hold still and let night mode do the work.
